AT A SPECIAL MEETING OF BRICK-layers' Union No. 1, D.C., the matter of the letting of the erection of the car stables of the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company to a non-union bricklayer was considered as a matter seriously affecting the mechanics of this city. The facts were reported by committees that the work was given to a non-union contractor because of his ability to underbid those employing union men, as the non-union contractor employs men at a pittance when compared with the wages paid and maintained by union men; that a large per cent of the men employed are imported, having never patronized the business men of this city, men who are not of us—not identified with our city; that the sentiment of the W. and G. R.R. Co., as implied in the letting of this contract and expressed to the several committees, is one of entire disregard for the 15,000 organized workingmen of Washington, who have liberall confidentified and from whose earning the picklayers feel aggrieved, and while ready, individually and collectively, to be any individually and collectively, to the early individually and collectively, to be any individually and collectively they could be a picklayers feel aggrieved, and while they contract on the workingmen of Washington.

The 190 skins which the schooner had on board were taken by Lieut. Tuttle and placed on board the Rush. The schooner, which was under command of a white man, was then ordered to proceed to Sitka. The case finally drifted into the hands of the naval advisory board, the turret was at last constructed by the bureau of ordnance, and now it is to be tested. The armor consists of a double-curved turtle-back turret designed for the deck of a ship to protect a gun. It is 4 inches thick. The inventor claims that it will deflect a shot that would

Seven shots will be fired unless the target is broken before that point is reached. The inventor has requested that if the turret is intact after the seven shots have struck it, it will be fired at until destroyed, but there is a feeling among the officers at the department that the first shot will settle the matter. In case the turret stands the test it will probably be adopted for use on some of the new vessels. The experimental turret to be fired at Wednesday cost nearly $19,000.

NEW DEPARTURE IN PAVING. An Asphalt Surface on a Cobblestone Foundation.

Heretofore, when a cobblestone roadway has been paved with asphalt, it has been the custom to remove the cobble and excavate to a depth sufficient and put in a new base of hydraulic concrete or bituminous concrete. Capt. Symons has just made a new departure

Here the cobble has been allowed to remain in place and the pavement laid on top of it, the interstices any address in the United States or Canada of the cobble being filled above the tops of all the stones with a bituminous binder. rate of fifty cents per month. But all Capt Symons thinks that this system should be carried out in all cases where the District intends to pave with asphalt streets already paved with cobble, as it will result in a saving of 75c. to $1 per yard.

Almost immediately the Engineer Commis-sioner recommended changes in the property clerk's office, involving, it is stated, the re-moval of the present occupant of the office. According to the custom that has prevailed at the District building the wishes of a Commissioner concerning any office immediately under his charge have always been respected by his colleagues. In this case, how-ever, it is stated Mr. Douglass declined to approve the change proposed by Mr. Raymond, A change was made, however, by which the duties of the property clerk were divided, Mr. Beckett, the incumbent, having charge of property inside and Mr Boiseau having charge property outside of the District buildings and property yards.

Neither Mr. Douglass nor Mr. Hine cared to ay anything in reference to the criticisms upon the retention of the property clerk when a STAR reporter broached the subject to them today.

Maj. Raymond, when questioned upon the subject by a STAR reporter today said: "Yes, it is true I recommended a change in the office of property clerk some time ago. The matter was discussed informally in the board and I decided to give it further consideration. Since that time I have made some changes in the ar-arrangement of the property division and do not propose to recommend any change at pres-

LABOR DAY.

How it is Being Observed in Various Cities. New York, Sept. 2.-Labor day is being generally observed. Business is almost wholly suspended and the streets wear a Sunday-like appearance. The weather is cool and clear. Extraordinary efforts have been made by the various labor organizations in this city to fittingly celebrate the day. At an early hour this morning the labor and trade organizations of all branches assembled in their various headquarters and marched to the starting point of the great parade—Washington square. The final preparations for the parade were made last night. The signal to start was given shortly after 10 o'clock and some 20,000 wage earners moved along Washington square into 5th avenue in the following order: Grand marshal, Geo. Cavanagh, walking delegate of the Amalgamated order of carpenters and joiners, with six aides.

First division—The painters' unions, United Order of American Carpenters and Joiners, Progressive Carpenters, United Brotherhood of American Carpenters and Joiners, German framers; stair builders, Theatrical progressive union, sash, door and blind carpenters, Englishspeaking framers.

GOSSIP FROM LONDON.

Fear of the Monied Classes Explains Investments in Foreign Enterprises.

Loxpox, Sept. 2.—The monied classes of London fear that they have indeed fallen upon evil the large investments now being made in fear that something will come of Prof. Stewart's movement for the better housing of the working classes, the necessity for which has awakened the attention of philanthropists for many years.

The majority of the new London county council are in favor of the professor's plant of the most rigid investigation by the local and the most rigid investigation of this last grave offense. FORTUNES WIPED AWAY BY THE STRIKE. Many London holders of shares in dock propstrikes. Of these a larger proportion than might be supposed are people, many of them ladies, whose little properties were invested in this manner, often through legacies, and who by this sudden diminution or total loss of their modest incomes may be made as poor as the strikers themselves. One effect of the strike predicted by merchants will be to greatly de-crease the importance of London as a commercial entrepot. The smaller ports will undoubt-edly hold the gain which they have already made at the expense of the metropolis, and it is an evidence of the far sightedness of capital that lands available for increased dock privileges in Hull, Southampton, and especially in Bristol, have already increased in price, and other ports fallen into disuse, but formerly of importance, are calling attention to their possi-bilities and inviting capital for their development. HOW THE SHIP-BUILDING INDUSTRY LEFT LONDON. Mr. Wisby, an employing wharfinger, says: The ship-building interest was forced out of the Thames a generation ago by just such a strike and there does not appear to be even a possi-bility of its ever returning. Over forty thousand people were directly or indirectly supported by its industries. In the new localities to which it took its flight only the skilled London workmen were wanted or had means to follow it, and those who were forced to remain in London fell into misery and often into crime. The duck laborers here can hardly become any poorer than they are now under any circumstances. but the thousands employed in occupations depending upon the uninterrupted prosperity of London's commerce will be forced to seek other means of livelihood.

This occurred at Shell Mound, 10 miles above here on the Tallahatchie river. A majority of the negroes' alliance voted in favor of Cromwell and he retained his position. The next day Cromwell received an anonymous letter, with crossbones, skeletons, etc., ordering him to quit his work and leave the country, giving him ten days.
